Bazaar and Concert Great Success.

NET PROCEEDS $235.00.

"Leave it to the ladies" is a time-worn but most appropriate expression, applicable in most cases and especially when it is in the matter of providing entertainments and festivals.

The bazaar and concert given in the Oddfellow Hall on Friday of last week was a decided success from every point of the compass. The hall was daintily decorated for the occasion—the hand of the artist was there—and the innumerable articles collected, both ornamental and useful, all made by the tireless fingers of the ladies, were tastily arranged in those cosy little booths and gave the hall the appearance of a Christmas anniversary in Fairylane. Indeed the problem—and such a problem it is—of buying Xmas presents, by a glance from booth to booth was made easy. "Just the thing" for every body from Grandpa down to little Willie was to be found upon upon the counters, and every solitary artical was carried off by the eager shoppers, and every purchaser got about one hundred and fifty cents worth for a dollar too.

But there is a certain class of people we are loath to admit, that don't care for or have no use for dolls and doilies and pretty things, nor taffy and candy and babies rings. For this class of mankind the ladies had made ample provision. By that perceptive instinct peculiar to their peculiarities the ladies knew that this class of mankind would be on hand with their peculiarities, to be satisfied. Accordingly a delicious and bountiful chicken supper was served upon the tables—and the tables groaned first.

Supper over the dishes, tables and other things were cleared away and the festival hall was quickly transformed into an auditorium and at 20:30 in spite of the cold, cold blast that blew the seating capacity of the hall was taxed to the very limit, and for two hours the audience was treated to a program of music, play and humor.

The newly organized church choir rendered with much credit several patriotic selections. The orchestra, comprising Miss Farrel, piano, J. Williamson, violin, and Jas. Marshall, guitar, livened things up a bit by their selections at the initial part of the program. The readings by Miss Ambler (Little Baptiste) and Mrs. Armstrong (The Inventor's Wife) were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Varcoe rendered a piano selection in a very pleasing manner and Lomond can well be proud to claim her talent. Mrs. King gave a very nice rendition of the solo "In the Garden of My Heart", and D. E. Snowden met with hearty applause in his solo "Three For Jack". Next came the play "The Lady Cook". This was exceptionally entertaining and

$2,000 for Patriotic Fund from Lomond

This is the Figure Aimed at by Local Organization. Your $$$$$ Will Help.

Battling against the elements—which happened to be several-degrees-below-zero weather—T. M. Tweedie, M.P.P., W. A. Buchanan, M.P., and Jas. McNaughton, M.P.P., braved a drive from Vulcan on Sunday in order to address patriotic rallies at Forestville in the afternoon and Lomond at night.

Despite the severe cold the seating capacity of the I.O.O.F. Hall was all taken up by a crowd anxious for enlightenment on the matters to be dealt with by the speakers. Rev. F. W. H. Armstrong opened the meeting, introducing Mr. McNaughton, who, after a brief address, took charge of the meeting for the rest of the evening.

Mr. Buchanan's forceful address address on "Canada's Part in the War" elucidated a great deal of interesting information. He impressed upon the audience the importance of honorable citizenship and the necessity of Canada's assistance to the empire in this struggle for justice. Mr. Tweedie, at beginning of his address explained in detail the workings of the Patriotic Fund. For most part we in Lomond were in darkness on this subject and welcomed the enlightenment. After this part of his remarks Mr. Tweedie brought home to us some clear-cut facts as to why we should be willing to open our purse strings in order to help our country. In the first place the unprecedented price of wheat was due entirely to war conditions, but, if it were not for the British navy and its control of the seas, wheat in the United States and Canada would probably be a worthless commodity. The speaker cited Russia as an example. Mr. Tweedie's eloquent portrayal of the comparative accomplishments the British and German empires since the beginning of the war was in itself worth a long journey's effort to hear. The wonderful organization in Great Britain in the space of two years from a peace footing to a marvel of military efficiency has been the wonder of the world. No amount of space we could allot to this subject could give full justice to these speakers and we can assure those who were not present that they missed something interesting.

Elevators Again Blockaded

When the fifth elevator was erected in Lomond we all breathed a contented sigh and made a mental note on the slate of our cranium to the effect that no more blockades would be seen here. But much to our chagrin, the blockade is nearly as effective as if caused by the British navy. The little Deutschland takes a run up every Tuesday and Friday and leaves a few cars, but they are merely an aggravation in face of the requirements. It is playing a great hardship on those hauling from a distance and it is hoped the C.P.R. will see fit to remedy the matter very soon.

W. V. Baker and A. W. Tulloch are in Calgary this week attending the annual convention of the Alberta Farmers Co-Operative Elevator Co. as delegates from the Lomond Local.

Lorne Whipple and Tony Kunkle are spending a few days in Calgary.

F. S. Horton, Bert Horton and Miss Ella Horton motored over from their farm at Standard. While here Bert negotiated the sale of his homestead near Wheat Centre to P. Thompson.

Mr. St. John, of Lajorde, Sask., has been placed in charge of the Travers branch of the Standard Bank. Lomond's manager also came from Lajorde—a sort of training camp, so to speak.

A sad death occurred on Thursday morning near Travers, when Mrs. Sodden, aged 28, succumbed to an acute attack of diabetes, leaving a family of three children and one a babe scarce two weeks old. Mrs. Sodden was widely known and highly respected and her early demise has cast a gloom over the settlement in which she resided.

The Bazaar held on Wednesday afternoon and evening at Travers under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Travers Methodist Church was a splendid success. Such a great crowd of people took advantage of the beautiful weather that the Farmers Hall was crowded to the door. The greater part of the programme was given by friends from Lomond and was greatly appreciated by all. The proceeds from the sale of goods and supper amounted to $206 and will be applied to the building fund of the new church at Travers.

well acted. The participants showed a good deal of talent and it is hoped that this will be but a beginning of affairs of this nature. The characters were: Mrs. Clement, Mrs. Williamson, Miss Farrel, Miss Doane, Pat Anderson and Jas. Marshall.

At the close of the program the chairman the Rev. Armstrong announced the proceeds of the Bazaar, $235.00.

Two Sides to the Story.

If affairs continue The Press will be about the best informed individual in the neighborhood on the subject of bum roads. It has turned out to be a many-sided issue. The town business men claim it to be none of their affair, that it is a municipal problem under the supervision of the municipal council and in which they, the business men, have no say whatever. They further maintain that it is the farmers themselves living within the municipality who have paid in their good money in taxes for the purpose of having this road work done and it is upon them that the responsibility lies in seeing that the money is judiciously spent. This view of the business men is technically correct. Unfortunately though, the great mass of farmers who have to contend with these bad roads, like the Lomond business men, are residents outside the municipality and likewise have no voice in the matter.

It just seems like chasing the devil around stump. Talking don't do any good. It looks to the Press as if someone has got to get in and stir up the mess, regardless of personalities. A municipal election will be held right in front of your eyes in less than a month's time. Make this an issue. Put it up to the would-be councillors that this is a matter that has to be attended to. Keep the axe hanging close to their heads until the work is properly accomplished and don't neglect to swing it if it is not. You are not paying taxes merely for the privilege of living within a municipality. Assert your rights of citizenship, enquire into civic affairs so that you can discourse intelligently upon them, and last of all, don't merely talk but act.

The Press can assure the farmers that the business men of Lomond are ready and willing at all times to co-operate in any matter for the promotion of the community's welfare.

LOCALETS

Mr. Thomas Marks of Armada has purchased the house and lot formerly owned by O. R. Olson. Mr. Marks will move his family into town immediately he has the house banked and made comfortable. Mr. Marks and Mr. Adams are the first of our farmers who have decided to move into the village that their children may have the advantage offered by the consolidated schools. We predict that these two families mark the vanguard of a long line of our progressive and up to date farmers who will, on account of our school system of primary education in the west, follow into town and make their home here.

Lomond Visits With Travers

On Wednesday evening fifteen autos containing some seventy five Lomondites motored to Travers to attend the chicken supper and concert given by the Ladies Aid of our neighboring town. The night was ideal for travel and every one reports a good time from the minute they left home until they returned. The only disappointing feature of the whole affair was the vacant impression created in some of the late arrivals. The chicken wing of the supper had migrated in the early stage of the performance, and the drum-sticks also had beat it; Nevertheless some of our local talent returned with a feather in their cap for their able performance on the Travers stage.

It is a laudable item of interest to note the reconciliation developing in the citizens of these two villages. There is no justification for jealousy, rivalry and enmity between two towns whose welfare and interest are so closely associated to each other. A little intermingling of people often dispels illusions which exist, imaginary troubles and differences fade away and acquaintance ripens into friendship and apparently sometimes into love, but we promise not to tell.

Mr. J. E. Craske bids fair to vie with that immortal genius Thomas A. Edison in his latest invention. We will not divulge the valuable secrets of the device but will leave the inventor to reap the undoubted profit from his original ideas. When completed the instrument should be capable of battering down the stone wall of China or the rock of Gibraltar, for with his little model he had no trouble in busting the rear wall out of the Central Garage with one shot. "And the little old Ford rambles right along."

If it had not been for the assistance of Mr. Leavell, of Queenstown, you would not receive a Lomond Press of this week—late as it is. His timely assistance in the composing room saved the day.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Aseltine have taken up housekeeping in their residence on Centre street, having had the interior re-decorated and exterior newly sided.

A. Parker is shipping hogs to-day.

L. Farrel is building a large addition on the front of his house.

A few of the boys met at the Drug Store Monday night to consider and discuss the feasibility of establishing a skating rink in town. All present were enthusiastic in voicing their desire of having a place of out door amusement and exercise for the winter months. The only obstacle standing in the way of accomplishing this desire is the necessary outlay in supplying water for building the first bed of ice, which would be considerable, yet this performance isn't beyond the bounds of possibility and we hope the boys will not drop the project but will find a way whereby Lomond will have a play ground for the long evenings of the approaching winter.

Mr. Somers, of Calgary, is relieving to the best of his ability the strenuous situation thrust upon the staff of the local bank by the coming of prosperity.
